

BITE

SIZE

ACTS

OF

COURAGE

BY THEIR SIDE

Dear Center for Youth friends and allies:

What does it mean to celebrate “bite-sized acts of courage”? Those actions and commitments that take place every day that we do not see or recognize as meaningful or important because they are acts often delivered by humble, quiet, determined people. Where do those confident and credible messengers make an impact?

If we are successful in making change, in transforming hate, in celebrating dignity, then we have to acknowledge the people who offer the best of themselves without expectation of recognition and fame for the real change in our community will not come from dignitaries and elected official, nor from controlling interests, but rather from those who care deeply about the human condition and decide to make it better. Improvements can take place most significantly in small increments not in big displays of grandeur and so at The Center we celebrate the little actions that contributed to the greater good this year.

“Bite-sized acts of courage” do take place in our EarthWorks program as we celebrate nature-based learning for all ages and for those often not easily exposed to the outdoors, and in our Crisis Nursery sites where families trust our staff to care for their most precious possessions at a time of emergency, fear, and trauma, and in our New Beginning House where young men in transition are giving the support they need to make positive choices, and in Teen Court where the judicial system slows down just enough to listen and offer a second chance, and in our dozens of school-based sites where every day Center staff are welcomed by youth across the country and beyond as we partner with school districts to make the academic experience free from social and emotional challenges.

This is The Center for Youth. And in 2024, we stood up for those who others failed and who then learned to stand up for themselves. We send our blessings and our gratitude.

Elaine
